Treat Instead of Trick"

Most youngsters of Seventh-day Adventist churches will go into "Reverse" on Halloween. The youth program is in co-operation with the denomination's missionary Volunteer Society with state headquarters in Staunton, Va.

Elder Otis Graves, secretary of the youth activities of the Potomac Conference, will direct the Adventist throughout Virginia, the District of Columbia, Prince Georges and Montgomery counties of Maryland in their annual "treat" instead of "Trick" procedure throughout the Halloween season. The plan for those participating is to leave at each door an attractive folder entitled "The Treat Is for you with No Tricks attached."

Information in the leaflets deal with "Gods Treat for You". The purpose of the activity is to make the ordeal of Halloween a little more bearable to householders who will be battling little goblins and pixies threatening to soap windows, screens and doors or worse if they are not bought off with a tribute of some sort.

It also gives the boys and girls a healthier good- neighbor attitude. Small children will be accompanied by adults on their good neighbor calls.

The young people will collect cans of food and clothing which will be used later in November and December in food baskets for the sick and needy at Thanksgiving and Christmas time.

LT. GOV. MILLS E. GODWIN

The Honorable Mills E. Godwin, Lieutenant Governor of Virginia, will speak Monday night, November 11, at the Appomattox Elementary School. The American Legion Auxiliary has asked him to speak.

Post 106, American Legion will meet jointly with the auxiliary. Meeting time is 8 p.m. The Auxiliary has lassied an invitation to the entire county and surrounding area to be on hand to hear the Lt. Governor.

Lt. Gov. Godwin is a native of Chuckatuck, Nansemond County. He is a nephew of Mrs. Charles T. Moses, Sr., of Appomattox.

ASCS To Meet November 7

County committeemen of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) from 29 South-central Virginia counties are meeting in Lynchburg today, November 7, for an orientation meeting following their election on October 24 to one-year terms on their respective county committees.

These committeemen are responsible for administering the various USDA action programs of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in the counties. The most active of these programs in this area are the Agricultural Conservation Program, Acreage Allotment and Marketing Quota Programs, Price Support and other regulatory programs. Also of utmost importance due to the drought disaster in Virginia is the livestock feed program approved in July of this year.

Thomas B. Fugate, member of Virginia ASC State Committee, will lead a discussion of duties and responsibilities of committeemen. W. T. Powers, State ASCS Executive Director, will discuss the background of ASCS farm programs which include the farm problems of soil and water conservation, farm prices, overproduction and underconsumption.

Due to the regulation in effect for the first time which provides that anyone who has reached his 70th birthday is not eligible for re-election, a considerable number of committeemen with records of service ranging up to 30 years were not eligible to continue as committeemen. Therefore, with a larger percent than usual of committeemen without prior service, every effort is being expended to acquaint these officials with background information on the programs they are authorized to administer at the county level. There will be additional meetings dealing primarily with the specifics of each of the programs coming under their jurisdiction.

The Lynchburg meeting is one of five such meetings at which ASCS State office officials will review the duties and responsibilities that county committeemen assume in administering programs of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Following these meetings, county committeemen will conduct similar training and orientation sessions for community committeemen.

Represented at today's meeting are the counties of: Amherst, Appomattox, Bedford, Botetourt, Buckingham, Campbell, Charlotte, Craig, Cumberland, Fluvanna, Franklin, Halifax, Henry, Lunenburg, Mecklenburg, Nelson Patrick, Pittsylvania, Prince Edward and Roanoke.

County committeemen attending from Appomattox County are J. A. Martin, W. D. Rix, III, and R. T. Nash.

Rain Helps Pave Church Driveway

A light, but steady shower of rain Friday afternoon helped workmen at Memorial Methodist Church. A spokesman for Lawhorne Brothers of Lynchburg said that 145 tons of Rockdale rock dust was being dumped on the gravel in the driveway at the rear of the church. Rain would compact the mass for later asphault surfacing, he said, and the showers meant that workmen would not have to water the area with hoses.

Fire Burns Stable At A. E. Smiths

A late afternoon fire Saturday at the farm of Andrew E. Smith, Route 4, Appomattox, burned 500 bales of hay, a new drill valued at nearly $500, and completely destroyed the stable in which they were stored.

Volunteers answering the call at 3:15 p.m. also climbed a large oak tree nearby to snuff out smouldering limbs which threatened to send sparks and fire onto a nearby barn and the Smith home.

Some children playing with matches may have been responsible, Smith said. He had no insurance to cover any of the loss.

Civic Chorus Holds First Rehearsal

The newly organized Civic Chorus of Appomattox, held its first rehearsal Sunday afternoon at the Appomattox Presbyterian Church. Next practice session will be this Sunday at 2 p.m. with a two hour session planned.

Director Reverend Thomas A. Waddill of Spout Spring voiced his enthusiasm at the turnout of singers. Only a handful had ever sung THE MESSIAH, but the group tackled the new music with enthusiasm, he said, and with gratifying results.

Performance Planned

A performance of Christmas portions of THE MESSIAH plus the Hallelujah Chorus is tentatively planned for Friday evening, December 20 at a location yet to be named.

Solo Tryouts

Tryouts for solos will be held in two weeks, Sunday, Nov. 17, following rehearsal.

Male Singers Needed

Anyone in Appomattox County and surrounding areas is invited to join the new group. Mr. Waddill particularly urges men to join the group in order to balance the women's sections. Letters are being sent out this week to pastors, choir directors, and others urging their participation and help to make the venture a success.

Ford Times Painting Collection On Display At Local Library

A letter request to Benson Ford, president of Ford Motor Co., Dearborn, Michigan, brought the Appomattox county library a quick a nd gratifying response this week.

A collection of paintings, on display at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, was brought to Appomattox early this week for display at the local library. In his telegrammed answer Ford said that the collection would be shipped following the Oct. 31 closing in Lexington. The exhibit includes 30 paintings of Alfred Dun, James E. Peck, Robert Bannister, and V. Douglas Snow who have adopted a Northwestern slant on scenes and activities of interest to travelers in the region.

The collection is one of the traveling exhibitions from the collection of American Art compiled over a period of years by the editors of Ford Times, A Ford Motor Co. publication sent to motorists throughout the country each month.

School Children Invited

Groups of school children from throughout the county will be brought by bus to view the paintings. Mrs. W. Harwood, librarian, said. An "open house" is also being planned in order that everyone may view the collection.

Ford Times painting exhibits are made available by Ford Motor Co. to schools and universities, libraries, and art organizations throughout the country. Source of these exhibitions is the Ford Times Collection of American Art, which includes more than 6,500 published paintings, as well as about 750 that have not yet been published.

About 400 printed programs describing the paintings were sent in advance of the collection for distribution to visitors.

Benson Ford, company president, was in Lexington in October for the Lee Chapel rededication. The rededication marked the end of a 14 month total restoration of the chapel built under the supervision of General Robert E. Lee when he was president of what was then Washington College from 1865 to 1870.

Mrs. Harwood said she felt it particularly fitting that the collection of paintings be moved from Lexington to Appomattox where Lee also made history in 1865.

First Accident In 27 Years

A rainstorm on Oct. 15 in Bedford County spelled the end of long dry spell, and the end of a longer time of 'no accidents' for Arthur C. Layne, of Appomattox. Layne has been driving for 27 years without an accident. On Oct. 15 a strip of road made slick with oil and water caused his truck to "jack-knife."
